

Northeastern University
NULab for Texts, Maps, and Networks

Jack Hitt & Chenjerai Kumanyika

Punching History in the Face:

how podcast journalism is challenging the dominant narrative of America's past

Thursday, February 7th
4–6pm
909 Renaissance Park

Join us for a talk by Jack Hitt and Chenjerai Kumanyika, co-creators of Gimlet Media's new Peabody award-winning history podcast "Uncivil."

"Uncivil" brings you stories that were left out of the official history of the Civil War, ransacks America's past, and takes on the history you grew up with. We bring you untold stories about resistance, covert operations, corruption, mutiny, counterfeiting, antebellum drones, and so much more. And we connect these forgotten struggles to the political battlefield we're living on right now. The story of the Civil War — the story of slavery, confederate monuments, racism — is the story of America.

Co-sponsored with the College of Arts, Media and Design; the Program in African and African-American Studies; the School of Journalism; and the Departments of Communication Studies and History.

This event is free and open to the public, but if you are not a member of the Northeastern community, please email Sarah Connell (sa.connell@northeastern.edu) to RSVP.

<https://web.northeastern.edu/nulab/event/uncivil/>