

Northeastern University
NULab for Texts, Maps, and Networks

NULab Spring Conference: TECHNOLOGIES OF DEMOCRACY

March 27, 2020

Northeastern University

90 Snell Library

9:30 AM – 5:00 PM

Please join us for the fourth annual NULab Spring Conference, featuring talks on our theme, “Technologies of Democracy.” This event will include a keynote address by Professor Patricia J. Williams, University Distinguished Professor of Law and Humanities at Northeastern University, and research presentations from Northeastern faculty and graduate students:

Nicole Aljoe: English; Director of Africana Studies Program

Moya Bailey: Cultures, Societies, and Global Studies;
Women's, Gender, and Sexuality Studies

Nicholas Beauchamp: Political Science

Myojung Chung: Journalism

Hanyu Chwe: Network Science

Brooke Foucault Welles: Communication Studies

Sarah Shugars: Network Science

Amanda Rust: Digital Scholarship Group

Ronald Robertson: Network Science

Jessica Silbey: Law; Faculty Director, Center for Law,
Innovation and Creativity

John Wihbey: Journalism

This is a free event, but registration is required. RSVP at:

<http://bit.ly/NULab-2020>

For more information, see:

<https://web.northeastern.edu/nulab/event/spring-conference-2020/>

Breakfast and lunch will be provided.