

Northeastern University
NULab for Texts, Maps, and Networks

NULab Spring Conference: DATA AND SOCIAL JUSTICE

April 9, 2021, 10:45am-4:30pm

Virtual via Zoom

Please join us for the fourth annual NULab Spring Conference, featuring talks on the theme, “Data and Social Justice.” This event will include a keynote address by Professor Patricia J. Williams, University Distinguished Professor of Law and Humanities at Northeastern University, and research presentations from Northeastern faculty and graduate students:

Nicole Aljoe: English and Africana Studies

Rahul Bhargava: Art + Design and Journalism

Avery Blankenship: English

Angeles Martinez Cuba: MIT, Urban Studies and Planning

Tianna Graphenreed: English

Meg Heckman: Journalism

Jessica Linker: History

Jim McGrath: History

Ángel David Nieves: Africana Studies, History, and Digital Humanities

K.J. Rawson: English and Women’s, Gender and Sexuality Studies

Cailin Roles: English

Eamon Schlotterback: English

Matthew Simonson: Network Science

David Smith: Computer Science

This is a free event, but registration is required. RSVP at:

<http://bit.ly/nulab-conference-spring2021-rsvp>

For more information and the conference program, see:

<http://bit.ly/spring-conference-2021>